Nicole's words wove together a rich tapestry of a story that captured my imagination. Well worth the read, I actually lost sleep in favor of finishing the story. My mom stole the book halfway through us reading together and finished it before I could. (My mom does | About the Author | Nicole B Hicks is a life-long poet and avid reader. She lives near Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania with her husband and son. Her favorite authors include Terry Pratchett, Tamora Pierce and Robin McKinley.

Why would a princess eat a stone? Midmun was once the magical capital of the world, so why doesn't magic work? Princess Niren's marriage was arranged at the time of her birth, so why have seven... eight... NINE princes come courting? Niren must wed to become queen, so why is she seeking magical protection against falling in love? Each of the princes has certain gifts, and everyone involved will be tested. Which of the princes can break through the wall around Niren's hea
